MUNICIPAL LIFE IN MANY PHASES

CONVENTION TAKES UP MANY RESOLUTIONS

Accounting an Important Mat- Pounament Tariff Commission A ter-City Building-Elective Police Boards Defeated

The delegates to the convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities spent an exceedingly busy morning and made satisfactory progress with their work. Besides disposing of a number of resolutions submitted from municipalities they heard an address on the building of a city from Aid Gleason, Victoria, and a paper on municipal test of the salities become general exceptions.

Add Gleason, Victoria, and a paper on townicipal accounting.

M. J. Crehan, of Crehan. Mouat & Co., chartered accountants, Vancouver, addressed the convention on municipal accounting. He pointed out the necessity for a clear and, comprehensive scheme of accounting, so that newly-dected councillors might chickly and intelligently grasp the financial stands on the continuity of its and intelligently grasp the financial stands caulbage swept up to the senate entire in the end that the continuity of its after from lack of proper information. will be shown in favor of returning to work.

The definite statement that the men would return to work on Monday morning is indeed a welcome piece of news, not only to Lethbridge but to the entire district. It means that thousands of idle men will be given employment at an increased wage and that the scarcity of fuel throughout the Dominion will be a thing of the subject.

London, Nov. 16.—Answering a question in the House of Commons by H. Page Croft, Unionist, Postmaster-General Samuel said that improved cable connection had been considered at the recent imperial Conference, but definite action had been postponed in view of the considerable reduction in rates and by some of the cable companies that time. He was not able to make a more definite statement on the subject.

BORDEN SHOWS TOUCH OF TEMPER

DUEL OF WORDS WITH SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Former 1 Premier Expresses Report That Revolutionists Are Surprise at Departure From British Customs

Ottawa, Nov. 16.—Those who have predicted a quiet session for the opening of the new parliament have changed their minds, for it has been some of the change changed their minds, for it has been made evident from the commencement that it would be a fighting session throughout. The crement of the class of the ablest men of China are sometimes that it would be a fighting session throughout. The crement of the operation of a Speaker vesterday was marked by a duel of words between the new premier, Hon. R. L. Borden, and the leader of the opposition. Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Incidentally the jatter drew first blood and the premier showed the first trace of temper evineed in his new capacity. It was a duel of a stiletto against a heaviern-weapon, the delicate thrust for which the ex-premier is noted being met with a broader repartee marked by considerable heat. As the members filed from the chamber at the adjournment the atmosphere was charsed with intenseness which had not characterized the somewhat boistnot characterized the somewhat be erous ceremonies of the morning. Con Siderable cominent was heard in the corridors and every member is prepar-ed for a fighting session.

Following the speech made by the new premier on the nomination of the Speaker, in which he spoke in highterms of various qualifications which fitted Dr. Sproule for the important position, Sir Wilfrid rose to support the nomination. Delicately and without trace of personal reflection upon the Speaker, he evinced surprise that upon this occasion life champions of British Institutions had not adhered to British Institutions had not adhered to British institutions had not adhered to Britis customs and re-elected Hon. Charle Marcil. Respect for British institution he supposed, was to be forgotten and to be brought out and burnished onty in time of election campaigns. He took occasion to refer to the coalition of Nationalists and the Imperial Conservations of Nationalists and Nationalists and Nationalists and Nationalists and Nationalists and Nationalists and Nationa of Nationalists and the Imperial Con-seryatives, expressing surprise that the nonlination of Dr. Sproule should be endorsed by the minister of public works, Hon. F. D. Monk. He himself in 1905 had been accused of being in conspiracy with Dr. Sproule to rob the Catholic, people of Saskatchewan of their schools. The Premier's reply was marked by onsiderable heat. The leader of the considerable heat. The leader of the opposition had already given evidence that he was ready to preach in opposition what he had not practiced in power. # The Growth of Richmond Park

Will be in True Proportion to the Growth of Victoria

Across the Street from Richmond Park

It will be to your advantage to get a marked plan and a complete price list at once. "RICHMOND PARD Is The Place Worth While."

By this we mean that Richmond Park is so situated that any expansion in Victoria's best residential district must pass through it.

The present unique situation of Richmond Park is accounted for by the fact that this property was withheld from the market long after surrounding property had been sold. People were waiting for Richmond Park to go on the market.

This accounts for the rapid growth of Richmond Park. Six months ago this beautiful subdivision was without improvements. To-day Richmond Park has graded streets, sewers on three streets and now a large water main is to be laid down Quamichan Avenue. Pipes are already on the

In addition to this several homes are under construction and others are contemplated.

In view of all improvements which are taking place in Richmond Park it is evident that values must increase rapidly and soon.

That is why you should lose no time in seeing this property. You will never again have the same opportunity to purchase lots inside the city limits and surrounded by so many improvements as the one now offered you. Richmond Park is a place of certainties.

Prices Start at $750

Terms: Quarter Cash, 6, 12, 18, 24 and 30 months

Before these terms expire Richmond Park will be a built-up residential district with values greatly increased. THE TIME TO BUY IN RICHMOND PARK IS NOW.

FAST TRIP MADE BY GENERAL FAIDBERB

Run From London to Vanz couver-Springs Surprise

Shipping men of the Pacific coast received somewhat of a surprise whe ich barque General Faidherb, Capt. Bigault, appeared in the Strait on Tuesday afternoon and was towed to Vancouver, reaching that port yes-terday morning. The vessel was erron-eously reported from Hobart. Tas-mania, on October 16, but when Capt. Bigault went ashore at Vancouver he ingault went ashore at Vancouver he surprised everyone by announcing that his course had been via Cape Horn, the barque was out 153 days from Lon-eon with cargo for Balfour, Guthrie & Co.

French sailing vessels have for years been subsidized by their government on a mileage basis and consequently always choose the longest route, there-by carning more bounty. Consequently French ships bound to the north Pa-cific always came via Tasmania instead of via the Horn. By some means or other the General Faidherb was report-

Avoided by Iroquois.

Avoided by Iroquois.

Seattle, Nov. 16.—That the collision between the steamer Iroquois and the Multnoman in Elliot Bay, October 25, was unnecessary and should have been avoided, was the contention of marine inspectors B. B. Whitney and R. A. Turner yesterday in the trial of Captain Bigault explained that his company no longer gets the bounty and that the French government has withdrawn the bounty system from several lines. Consequently the Cape Horn route was chosen in the case of the General Faidherb. She left London on June 15, and encountered head winds and storms down to Cape Horn and more off the famous headland. On the Pacific side head winds again delayed her and when she reached the equator she was for 18 days in the was a storm to find the calms. The large content is to a storm to find the calms. The barque laid for 18 days in the doldrums, but she was not alone in misfortune, for Capt. Bigault counted 20 sailing ships becaimed within eyesight of him.

Even with such adverse conditions the barque has proven herself a smart iler, for 153 days from London to sailer, for 133 days from London to Vancouver is an average passage. The General Fuirherb has 13,000 barrels of cement for Balfour, Guthrie & Co. to be discharged here and shipments of pig Iron and firebrick for the same-firm, which will be discharged on the Sound.

ilopeck Fishing Co. Trying to Prov Edric Was Illegally Captured.

Vancouver, B.-C., Nov. 16.-Arguent in the case of the seizure of the French Barque Completes Good peal court. The confiscation of the vessel for illegal fishing had been order-ed by the admiralty court, and 'the o'clock this morning and sailed two of Seattle, appealed.

Counsel for the defendants argued that there was no evidence that the Edrie was fishing within the three-imile limit. The captain of the Rainbow stated only that she was within the limit when the gun ordering her to surrender was fired at 1.10 p.m. on February 27, but she was not taken in to custody until she was outside the limit. Even then they admitted that she was only 350 yards within the three-mile limit when sighted.

He pointed out that Commander Stewart of the Rainbow stated that one of the bearings by which they determined the position of the Edrie was large significant of the Rainbow stated that one of the bearings by which they determined the position of the Edrie was large significant for the same of the serious content of flour for Chinese ports.

as it made its turn after backing, keeping the whistle of the other vessel continually on the starboard; the accident never would have taken place. According to Captain Whitney, the burden of responsibility, as he interpreted the law, rested on the ship changing its course in a fog.

Captain Carter protested that it was necessary for him to back from the dock and swing around toward West Seattle before setting on his course, but the marine inspectors maintained that the manoeuvres would confuse the incoming ship and that he should have passed her stern instead of attempting to cryss her bow.

With Supplies for Lighthouses and Stations.

To-day the steamer Newington, Capt. Barnes, of the Marine and Fisheries department, is loading stores and supplies for the lighthouses and life-saving stations on the west coast. It is expected that she will sail to-morrow. The Newington has returned from replacing the Sandheads lighthey which a short time ago proke from its moorting.

D. R. Young Says C. P. R. is Looking After People's

As one who had for some time advocated better transportation facilities to the Queen Charlotte Islands, D. R. Young, of the Queen Charlotte News, Who is spending a few days in this city, is greatly interested in the new C. P. R. steamer Princess Sophia, which took the water last week from Bow, McLachlan & Co's yards at Paisley, Scotland, Mr. Young, who has Just arrived from the Islands, states that the residents there are gratified to knoy that the Canadian Pacific has conceded to their petitions and they him of the vessel, that she will be most admirably adapted for the service.

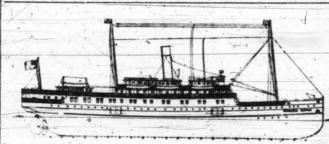

Business between the Queen Charlottes and Victoria and Vancouver is continually on the increase and the vessels which a few years ago were able to take care of the trade are at present totally inadequate. Mr. Young feels confident that when the new vessel will be a large influx of settlers to the British Columbia isles. The Sophia is expected her lage for March and large number of steerage passengers freight to discharge at this port and a large number of steerage passengers from Japan and China, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Canada Masu at daylight this morning but at 5 o'clock this afternoon. She was expected to have reached William Head at daylight this morning but at 5 o'clock she was just passing Pachena. The Japanese steamship tied up at quarantine at 2.30 o'clock and after securing a clean bill of health came up to the wharves to discharge.

The Maru arrived here after a fifteen day trip from Yekohama, during which lime she encountered considerable heavy weather. ### BY-LAWS BEFORE THE PEOPLE TO-MORROW

Measures of Importance That Will Stand Test of Public Opinion at the Polls

To-morrow will be by-law day in the city of Victoria, and it is expected that the market building which has been set aside for the polling will reflect the interest of the citizens in the various measures to be voted upon. In all there are five by-laws to be voted upon, representing in the aggregate a sum of $350,000. Voting will take place between the hours of $1.00. The by-laws are as follows. "The Songhees Park Hy-law, 1911," to provide the sum of $80,000 for the purchase of twelve acres, more or less, of the former Songhees reserve lying to the north of Esquimalt road, and facing on the waters of the Gorge for public park purposes.

THE GREAT C.P.R. COQUITLAM TERMINALS

COQUITLAM FOR THE C.P.R. BY-LAW

By Overwhelming Majority Municipality Ratifies Agreement With Company, Regarding the Company's Taxes--Says the News-Advertiser

Coquitlam, Nov. 11---By an overwhelming majority of 136 votes the bylaw to ratify the agreement entered into between the Council and the C, P, R. in regard to the taxation of the company's property was passed here to-day. The final returns showed that one-hundred and forty-two had voted in favour of the agreement and six against.

The polling booths were situated at the school-house on the North Road and the Municipal hall, New Westminster Junction, Much the heaviest vote was recorded at the Junction, where 118 ratepayers voted in favour of the bylaw and five against. At the Municipal Hall twenty-four ballots were cast for the agreement, one against. While the agreement was considered very favorable to the interests of the municipality it was not expected that it would be carried by such a great majority, and much satisfaction is felt at the result. Mr. John Smith acted as returning officer, and Messrs. O. Phillips and H. W. Baker as poll clerks at the hall and the Junction respectively.

By terms of the agreement the company is granted a fixed rate of taxation for the next ten years of $1530 a year on 612 acres of land on which it is to erect its new Pacific Coast Terminus. No reduction is allowed in regard to school taxes, which the C. P. R. will have to pay the same as any other ratepayer. On the large holdings outside the property named the company will be taxed on the ordinary basis.

The passing of the agreement is another step towards the realization of the C. P. R. Company's plans to establish at Coquitlam its Western terminus and repair shops, which will be second to none on the continent. A strip of land half a mile wide by two miles in length has been acquired by the company, and it is estimated that $7,000,000 will be spent in trackage, shops and equipment. When finished the new terminus and shops will give employment to some 5000 men, while the company's monthly payroll will be approximately $500,000 .-- News Advertiser, Sunday, Nov. 12th.

Some Unique Aspects of the Coquitlam Townsite Policy

Residence and Old Business Centre Lots Now on Sale--Applications Now Received for New Business Center (Known as First Division)Lots, but Outright Purchases, However, Will Be Allotted At Once

Our directors have devoted much time and thought to the matter of how to best handle the applications for business lots in the new business district-first division Coquitlam Terminal Townsite. The applications have been accumulating for several weeks. Some thought it would best to file these applications, and then as soon as the subdivision plans were ready let each applicant pick his lot in order of file. Others pointed out that ors who are in touch with Shauphnessy, Pitt the opportunities in Coquitlam would take advantage of Center, Greenwood the outside public, who, with the sale opening on the 15th, St. Mary's Heights would have only a few days notice. It was finally deand cided that reservations for ness centre would be re-James Park business lots in the new busiceived until November 25th. Subdivisions On this date the directors will make allotments with-Now Ready out favor or discrimination. Large Banks Apply for Corners

Five of the largest banks in Canada have already made application for double corners. Consider this well. As is generally well known, chartered banks cannot speculate in real estate. Now, think of the significance of the fact that five of the largest banks in Canada have made application for business sites. It naturally occurs to you that these banks, who are managed by shrewd and very conservative business men, have tested the statements made by us about Coquitlam and its future, and have ascertained their truth.

Five banks can serve a good sized community, and the community is going to be there for them to serve. We make a prediction on honor when we say that within three years 12,000 people will be living in the new city of Coquitlam. Do you know of any other new place in the Vancouver metropolitan district that will have 12,000 people in three or five years? That means 5,000 people more than North Vancouver and as many people as Vancouver had fifteen years ago.

$30 a Front Foot

Now, our highest priced inside business lots are $1,000 a lot, which is $30 a front foot. What will these lots be worth per front foot when the city of Coquitlam has 12,000? When Calgary and Edmonton had only 7,000 they were asking and getting $500 per front foot for business lots. New Westminster has to-day few more people than Coquitlam will have within five years and good business property is selling for $750 per front foot. What has been done in these cities will be done in Coquitlam, and let us just discount Coquitlam 70 per cent, and then some and still have business lots in Coquitlam at $1,000 a good investment.

No Exaggeration

The men behind the Coquitlam Terminal Company, Ltd., are strongly opposed to exaggerating. They insisted that the announcement of the Company be conservative in the extreme, preferring to have the facts presented in the boldest, plainest way, rather than to have them highly colored in a way to leave room for misapprehension.

If the average flamboyant real estate advertiser were writing this advertisement he would probably say one-half the business lots were under application, and, as a wise old reader of these advertisements, you would discount his statement 100 per cent.

Now, when we say that, as near as we can count, we have to date between 100 and lots, we are stating the naked fact.

There is a world of meaning in the fact that those applications were made before we did any advertising and that they were made before the public, as a whole, knew and understood the Coquitlam situation.

If you are still skeptical and class the Coquitlam Terminal Company and its townsite with the general run of townsite companies and their propositions, you owe it to yourself to find out the truth.

Now, it is a pretty good rule that a company is just about as good as its stockholders. On request we will furnish a full list of stockholders and directors. We will let you know who the individuals are who

Unique Plan

Every company has its own way of handling its own business. Our methods of handling this townsite are unique in several respects. As a careful reader of the advertisements you have made a mental note of the differences between us and other townsite companies. There is one thing that should cause you to reflect—we are reserving one-half of all the corners and one-quarter of all other lots in the townsite. We make this reservation for three reasons—One: That we may be able a little

After listening to a cordial welcom After listening to a cordial welcome to the provincial capital from Mayor Morley, on behalf of the citizens and city council of Victoria, which was acknowledged by Mayor Lee of New Westminster, the Union of British Columbia Municipalities yesterday aftermoon settled down to the consideration of the business before it.

Mayor Morley, in extending a hearty welcome to the convention, said:

Mr. President and delegates to this convention of the U.B.C.M., it gives me great pleasure to note to-day the increasing interest taken in the work of the union. The meeting here is in marked contrast to the one I had the pleasure of attending in 1996 in Kampleops. We have here three times as We have here three times as as attended that meeting, showmany as attended that meeting, showing these two facts—that there is more interest being taken in the union's work and that we have more reason to take an interest in it. The country is growing and matters of greater importance demand our attention.

I am here to tell you that we are glad and proud to welcome you to your mother city, as it is in every way because the capital city of the province and increase as to the sale of liquor increase.

mother city, as it is in every way being the capital city of the province and the mother city of the association. You are an adjunct of the parliamentary assembly; your work lines up with their work, and to my estimation you should consider Victoria as much your home centre as it is that of parliament. I hope the president will be able to congratulate the union on deciding to not all its future meetings here. We will try and make it worth your while in all ways. We hope shortly to make it more convenient in the way of accommodation for your meetings. I hope the convention will be a record in this way, that there never was a time when convention will be a record in this way, that there never was a time when municipalities needed more careful and close study as to legislative wants as at this time. We should unionize our efforts and make our wants strongly and pressingly known, and at an early date. The known and determined wants of the municipalities should be put in such form each year as to save the one law was efficient for all of them.

Situate on Graham Island, Bearskin Bay, one of the best harbors in the north, at the gateway of transportation to all points of the world, and at the very doors of Queen Charlotte City, in fact a portion of this coal underlies the townsite. No railroads to build, just load the coal from the mines to the boats. These are facts that defy contradiction.

By the time the men returned with the water supply it had grown very dark.

"Accordingly the ship's crew was left with time on its hands to do with exactly as pleased it, and it pleased every single man-jack to get intoxicated.

The officers and captain down in the meers began to rear for their fives, so completely were they at the mercy of the half-crazed crew.

Trembling with fear, for I was but a child, I sought out a discarded sail and will a succeed the supply when Old Sol streamed full in my face next morning. The quiet of death reigneds about me, for the mulineers were sleeping off the effects of their carouse. Now was my opportunity to get away from the ship.

"With catlike stealth I arose and looked about.

"Every boat was holsted far out of reach. I knew, anyway, that my strength was insufficient to budge one of them.

"My eyes lighted off the cross-jack yard, and with a smothered exclamation I made for and soon dropped it into the water. Taking a paddle in my hand I went over the side. With a sharp knife I cut the ropes and, the wind being in my favor, was soon paddling furiously shoreward.

shoreward.

It was a long pull, but after frequent pauses for rest and a great deal of hard work, I landed in safety. I cut across land as fast as my short shore legs would permit, and finally made my way to the harbor wherein lay the man-o-war.

"Frantically I signaled until it put off a boat, which came toward me. Between gasps for breath, I told my story, and was hurriedly pulled into the boat and taken on board.

"Three cutters were detailed to quelt the mutiny, and I was placed at the side of a tail, dark officer, who commanded the expedition. After a long time we signited the Bess and I could make out a boat just going ashore, most probably for provisions, as I told the officer. Two of the cutters made for the Bess while the other steered for the mutineers in the boat.

"As we came near them, they at-

"Stern! yelled our commander, as he seized a boathook. The men jumped to obey, and as the cutter backed down the officer hooked upon the stern of the mutineers' boat and made fast.

"Andrews surrendered and he and significant of the worst of the mutineers were put in irons. And I, a mere cabin boy, had saved the ship.

"That was my start. The captain took the greatest possible interest in me, besides rewarding me handsomely with money, so that I was never sorry that I had made that dangerous pull on the cross-jack yard, though I had almost died of fright at the time-being but a child."

N THE deepest recess of a dark forest stood an old wigwam, all by itself. The man whom the Dacotahs knew had at one time lived in it was supposed to have died; but he was only keeping himself in hiding for the sake of the little grandson, whose grandson, whose mother had hidden him there from his enemies, the his enemies, the giants.

Now there had been a tradition among the Dacotahs for a long long time that some day a great warrior would spring from the tribe; that he should subdue all their enemies, and that through him, the Dacotahs would regain the name they had lost as the swiftest runners and bravest warriors on earth.

He would even subdue the mighty giants who had oppressed them for so

Now the giants had heard this story and were at great pains to prevent its fulfillment. They said to the Da-cotah braves therefore: "Let us hold a great race. If you win this, we will deliver over to you our sons and daughters; and if we win we will take yours."

The giants laughed in gies, and in the dead of the night dug pitfalls on the prairie and covered them with sticks and leaves. Next day these caused the swift men of the Dacotahs to stumble and, of course, lose the race.
Sadly the Dacotahs brought forth

It was this little lad who was hid away in the forest wigwam. His grandfather taught him, as soon as his tiny hands were able to grasp a bow, how to aim and shoot.

When he was still very small indeed he shot and killed a fine deer.

Time passed and the lad grew into a strong stripling of fourteen summers. One day he was prowling through the woods when he heard a cracked little voice calling to him:

"White Feather, come hers. Some 4 little voice calling to him:

"White Feather. come here. Someday you shall wear the white feather!"

Looking behind him the lad saw the head of a strange little old man appearing above the cut-off stump of a tree. The strangest part of it was that his body had no legs attached, in fact was wood and made fast to earth.
His hat was of a pea-green color and his coat of the same shade. With a low bow he said:

"You are worthy of the name of White Feather; therefore, if you follow carefully my directions, you will in very truth become the pride of your race."

The lad recognized an old cak tree

head went on, caying:

"Go home and lie down to sleep,
White Feather. When you awake you will find a pouch of smoking tobacco, a pipe and a white feather.
Place the feather on your head, fill your pipe and sit down to smoke."

Then the head told him who he was,
and that the giants had never given up the search for him.

Now was his opportunity. He was to go boldly to the lodge of the giants and offer to race with any one of them.

Then the head gave White Feather a magic vine to throw over the heads of all who raced with him. Everything happened as the head had predicted.

White Feather, next morning, left his granifather's wigwam and set out in search of, the giants.

He passed through a forest, then a prairie, then another forest, and finally, he came upon a high lodge in the very when white reacher went in and pro-posed the race, they laughed him to scorn, although secretly they had hoped he would do this very thing. They chose the smallest and weakest among them to race first with him. The arrangement was to run toward the sast until a certain tree, which had been east until a certain tree, which had been marked, was reached, then back to the start, where a heavy iron wardub lay. Whoever reached this first was to kill the other with it. Now, the time for the race approached and White Feather the race approached and White Feather and the youngest giant ran as nimbly, as the wind; but the rive giant brothers, watching, were delighted to see that their youngest brother was slowly but surely gaining upon White Feather.

At last he shot shead, but White

Next morning he went to race with the second giant, and again won the race with the aid of the magic vine. 'And so it continued until at length all but the sixth giant had been done away with. As he set out to race with the last sixth giant had been done away with.

As he set out to race with the last giant on the sixth morning he heard a mysterious voice from the old oak, which warned him that the sixth giant was afraid to race with him and would strive to defeat him by enchantment. As he passed through the wood he would meet with a most beautiful woman.

To avoid her he must wish to become an elk, when he would at once be changed into that animal. He must even then shun the woman, for she wished him harm.

White Feather had gone only a short distance when, sure enough, he met the

Now he had never seen a woman before, and aithough he wished himself an elk and immediately became one, he could not summon strength of will sufficient to get away from the spot, but as he walked about raised his eyes again and again to look at her.

Finally she came over to him and began to stroke his neck. Then she spoke to him.

spoke to him.

"Why did you change your shape?"
she asked. "You were such a spiendidlooking warrior: I have been much sought after, but I have traveled a very great distance to become your wife and have spurned my other suttors."
This was too much for White Festher.
He saw the, glistening tears in the eyes of the woman and immediately wished himself a man again. Taking her by the hand he talked long and earnestly, and at last she promised to become his wife.

Finally they sat down together under a tree. He asked her to tell him of her life. This she promised to do, and as he lay beside her she stroked his halr and forehead until he slept soundly.

The galleries were crowded when the chancellor rose to speak. He began by taking up the reports that the dispatch of the German gunboat Panther to Agadir, Morocco, as a "boil out of a blue sky," and that Germany planned to acquire territory in Southern Morocco.

Before sending the warship to Aga von Bethmann-Hollweg said he had proposed that France and Germany should open negotiations to reach a basis for the recognition of France's political position in Morocco, the economic guarantees to be obtained by Germany and colonial compensation.

France, however, avoided positive politics, and in the meanwhile went ahead with the occupation of Morocco.

The dispatch of the gunboat Panther (then became precessary and it produced) then became necessary, and it produced the desired result. The falsity of the assertions that Germany contemplated the acquisition of Moroccan territory was plainly shown, the chancellor con ed, by the declaration communi tinued, by the gectaration communi-cated to the powers immediately be-fore the arrival of the Panther at Aga-dir as well as the inspired-statements printed in the newspapers immediately after the German warship had anchored off the Moroccan seaport. was worth more than all discussions of a resolution and disarmaments.

Summing up the advantages of the agreement, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg concluded with the words: "I expect no praise and fear no blame."

The attention of the spectators in the gallerles and the members of the Reichstag at the time of and after the speech was made by Baron von Hertling, Clerical, and Herr von Heldebrand, Conservative, was attracted by the attitude of Crown Prince Frederick William. The crown prince openly applauded the phrase "Our peaceful professions are regarded abroad as a sign of weakness," and nodded approval at other criticisms of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg's policy, notably with regard to the chancellor's attitude towards the

SCIENCE AND ELEC-TRICITY RY T. H. DODSON

When we stop to think of the fact When we stop to think of the fact that absolutely nothing is known of either electricity or its sister phenomenon magnetism, from the inside, is it not wonderful that so much should have been done with them? It is not yet known whether flow takes place inside copper wires or magnetic material, or in the medium surrounding; or even whether flow takes place in any shape when electricity and magnetism shift from one point in a circuit to another. It is safe to conclude that primitive man was familiar with cuit to another. It is sage to conclude that primitive man was familiar with electricity in the form of lightning, and with magnetism in the shape of magnetic oxide, but, like his brother prehistoric man, who sliently surveyed the roaring mountain torrent as it tumbled headlong to the sea with that mysterious agent, grayity, pressing mysterious agent, gravity, pressing hard on its heels, it is hardly possible could have foreseen the ever "en-ging part both" the falling water delectricity were to play in the in-strial life of his civilized brother of day. With the coming of the ap-ed science school the far-reaching stibilities of these inysterious forces mature were not long in assuming nature were not long in assuming shape. At one of these the university of Paria, in schools, the university of Paria, in north Italy, an applied science professor spent his leisure time in patient research experimenting with simple discs of copper and zinc and simpler strips of fabric moistened with acidulated water. During one of these harmless experiments he noticed a peculiar green spark, yet, upon the discovery that by so, arranging these simple discs of copper and zinc, and the moistened fabric, a feeble current of electricity could be generated artificially, has been built up all we know of the modern science of electricity and its manifold applications to almost its manifold applications to almost every phase of modern life, and the thereof was made by the mortal Volta.

Volta's day electrical science ade enormous strides, so much Since Volta's day electrical science has made enormous strides, so much so that in our own times it has made possible the transmitting of 50,000 horse-power by a wire one half inch in diameter without the slightest manifestation of distress when carried out upon scientific data. Yet without But, in our time the scientist flocks upon Faraday and his ring transformer long distance transmission of electrical energy would still probably remain an experimental quantity.

For light and power electricity is dideal, but its application here by no his electric generator gives out light.

For light and power electricity is he drives an electric generator, and dieal, but its application here by no his electric generator gives out light means limits its possibilities for other and heat similar to the light and heat equally important purposes. In electroforest growth. For electrical knowlcomplished augers welf for its application to metal mining with regard to the electrolytic separation of gold and silver and copper from their ores. No process for the production of raw coppressives nurre metal than the elecprocess for the production of raw cop-per gives purer metal than the elec-tric refining method. Wherever it is applied to the separation of gold and silver in har bullion, equally success-ful results are obtained. The electric manufacture of aluminium from Bauxite is by no means its least achievement. In electro-chemistry, too, achievement. In electro-chemistry, too, it has demonstrated its far-reaching possibilities in the production of caustic soda, chlorate of potash, etc. Who can say what it may not yet accomplish in electric smelting and the manufacture of seel. No carbon furnace can equal the electric furnace for read in the papers that GIN PILLS wide range of temperatures or facility would positively cure rheumatism. I have been suffering with Rheumatism. 'It is a fact not generally known tha professional "greatest" frequently used to professional "greatest" frequently use cyphers of their own invention in order to communicate with their confederates. Quite a number of these are preserved in the "thack Museum" at Sectional Yard, and all of their have been deciphered—

the Black Museum and all of them have been deciphered—save one.

This solitary exception, which has baffled all the experts, was found on a burglar named Macdonald, who was sentenced some time back at the Old Balley to twenty years' penal servitude for the attempted murder of Detective-Inspector Hooper and other officers by shooting at them with a revolver while he was being taken in a four wheeled cab to Euston station in custody.

The Poreign Office, the Secret Service and the Home Office experts, have all in turn tried their hands at it, but without success. Yet it is known to be a genuine cryptogram, and not a mere meaningless jumble of signs and letters.

Its construction must be very elaborate, for many of those that have been deciphered are of exceedingly intricate construction. One took six weeks to unravel it was worth the trouble, however, for it revealed the clue to the hidding-place of $6000 worth of stolen jewellery.

The employment of night watchmen, Mayor Husband explained, arose out of the occurrence of fires such as that which cost eleven lives in Vernon in August, 1909. It was pointed out by Reeve Weart, however, that municipalities had power now to say what the conditions should be under which licences were granted or renewed, and the employment of watchmen could be made one of these conditions.

It was pointed out that by the recent decision of the Court of Appeal in Victoria City vs. Levy it was held that municipalities had the power to licence bartenders.

THE LIBRARY BY-LAW:

To the Editor:—Will the commissioners be good chough to state whether it is the intention to permit the continuance of fice playing of games in the public library? This practice is unique in the histories of such institutions certainly a destriment to studious ence who frequent tibraries for the acquirement of knowledge or news, and by many justly considered to hesolutely pernicious. The loud taking, shouling, smoking and chewing indulged in by the habitues of the game room in hugurated by the commissioners surely cannot be considered to be desirable adjuncts to institutions of learning and sober, intellectual endoyment.
